Dear Dr. Kanumury,

I am writing this letter to tell you about the effects of Feng Shui on my complementary healthcare practice and my life. I met Diana Garber in 2004, as I was opening a new massage therapy business. I hired Diana to evaluate my new business space and make suggestions. I implemented the Feng Shui report and was pleased to watch my business grow.

My clients reported feeling safe, comfortable, relaxed and supported, all things that are important in a massage therapy environment. Additionally, my business partner, our employees and I all experienced the same feeling of safety and support. Our office was located in a declining neighborhood for seven years, and we never had an incident with our employees or clients that made us fear our business office location.

After seven years and several life changes, I decided to go into business as a sole practitioner and I again contacted Diana to conduct a Feng Shui analysis of several office locations I was considering. I choose the location Diana deemed to be the best fit for me, and again have seen my business grow. Typically, a massage therapist will lose 50% of his/her clientele during a move, and half of the clients in my old business location had been seen by other therapists. I did not expect to retain those clients, however, 80% of my regular clients stayed with me, 25 clients of other therapists moved to my new office and I have grown my business by 20% in this first year of business.

My clients continue to tell me they feel safe and comfortable, that my office space is cozy and warm. Just the things I want to hear from old and new clients who trust me enough to receive a very intimate therapy.

I have heard Diana speak on several occasions and am always happy to learn something new about a very old subject. I believe your participants will be just as pleased to have Diana be one of their presenters.

Sincerely,
